Attainable And Aspirational Canadian Art For Empty Walls

Peter Triantos is a Canadian painter who is a star in the international art world. For those who have the financial means to purchase important contemporary art from a living master, you may wish to consider purchasing a Triantos work. Although he is most well known for his Jelly Bean series, he has a multitude of other series from which to make a selection. Working with both oil and acrylic on canvas, most of Triantos' works are oversized and his colour choices and subject matter which make a bold statement in any space with large empty walls. Below, Taxi Driver, acrylic on canvas, 60 x 108 inches (152 x 174 cm). Contact the artist for pricing.

Showcasing art in your home reflects a very personal journey. Visual stimuli through colour and form are essential in our most most personal surroundings as they generate vital memories or feelings of belonging, comfort and even healing. When we view art either in our private or public spaces, we connect directly with the powerful force of raw human expression which is often overlooked in the hustle and bustle of daily living.

Regardless of how much you spend (time or money), the value that art can bring into your life is priceless.

Peter Triantos is pleased to donate a spectacular piece to Bloor Street Entertains Canadian Foundation for Aids Research

One of Peter Triantos' original artwork will be included in a prestigious Silent Auction CANFARAUCION.COM for Bloor Street Entertains, Canada's largest fundraising gala in support of HIV innovative research. This gala on November 27 at Four Seasons Hotel is held by The Canadian Foundation for AIDS Research to raise money towards ending the HIV epidemic in Canada.

Peter Triantos is contributing to Children's Aid Foundation of Canada Gala Teddy Bear Affair

Empowering youth and improving their lives are the primary responsibilities of adults. Philanthropist Peter Triantos is delighted to support Teddy Bear Affair, the annual Children's Aid Foundation Gala on November 2nd, by donating artwork from his iconic 'Jelly Bean' series for its charity auction. This will be his second time to contribute to Teddy Bear Affair.

Additionally, Peter is thrilled to participate in their special interview for the gala. He shares his way towards becoming a renowned top contemporary abstract artist, hoping to encourage children in hardships and follow their dreams.
